The 2007 Intermountain Ski Hall of Fame was held at the Joe Quinney Winter Sports Center on Thursday, September 20, 2007. The six inductees are outlined below.

Woody Anderson (1932 -)

A Renaissance man of skiing in the Intermountain Region, Woody Anderson's accomplishments cover the spectrum of the sport. Woody began teaching skiing in 1947 in Salt Lake City, Utah with the Deseret News Ski School. He joined the Brighton Ski School in 1948 and was its assistant director from 1954 to 1962. Woody owned and operated the Woodhaus Ski and Sports Shop at Brighton from 1956 to 1963.

Woody competed for the Armed Forces while stationed with the U.S. Army in Germany from 1951-1953.

Woody became ski school director at the new Park City Resort in 1964 and was named its general manager in 1965, serving in both capacities until 1971, when he was appointed vice president-general manager. From 1963 to 1967 he owned and operated the Miner's Find Ski & Sport Shop in Park City. He became owner-president of Pomerelle Ski Resort, Albion, Idaho, in 1973. From 1977 to 1984 Anderson was owner-president of Magic Mountain Ski Resort near Twin Falls, Idaho.

Woody was one of the founders of the Intermountain Ski Instructors Association, serving as its secretary, certification chairman, president and director. He was National Certification Chairman of the Professional Ski Instructors of America in 1968 and was designated a Lifetime Member for his contribution to organized skiing by the PSIA/PSIA-I in 1978. Woody was inducted into the PSIA-I Hall of Fame in 2004.

Ted Johnson (1926 -)

As the visionary and founder behind Snowbird Ski and Summer Resort, Ted Johnson forever altered the recreational landscape of Utah. The one-time beach enthusiast in his native California and later a do-it-all employee at Alta Ski Area, Ted in 1965 put his foresight and fortitude into a dream of establishing a resort with the purchase of the Blackjack mining claims. This led to Johnson's acquisition of the 800-acre parcel abutting Wasatch National Forest lands in storied Little Cottonwood Canyon.

After persevering through five years of study and setbacks, heartbreak and breakthroughs, and orchestrating the construction of a canyon-long sewer line, Johnson welcomed the first skiers to Snowbird in 1971. The resort's environment-embracing sod-covered roofs, internationally-acclaimed ski runs, hotels and cuisine, and its skier/boarder/tourist conveyance system that includes a 120-passenger tram and a skier tunnel, stand as legacies to the wily "Silver Fox," an entrepreneur whose quest was not to be denied.

Pete Karns (1945 -)

Pete Karns carved an impressive legacy of accomplishment at every level of skiing competition - junior, collegiate, Olympic, Masters. A native of Jackson Hole, Wyoming, Karns was a dominant competitor in slalom, downhill, cross-country and jumping in the region's junior ranks starting in 1955. His triumphs in cross-country and Skimeister (4-way combined) events as a member of the University of Utah Ski Team between 1964 and 1967 earned him NCAA All-American honors in 1966. In 1967 he won the cross-country title in the 1967 Rocky Mountain Intercollegiate Ski Championships.

Pete placed first in the U.S. Biathlon National Championships in 1970 and 1972. In 1972 he was a member of the U.S. Olympic Biathlon Team that placed 6th in the Sapporo, Japan, Olympic Games, the best performance by a US Biathlon team at that time. He was second in the 1980 U.S. Biathlon National Championships and second in the team relay in the 1985 World Masters Cross-country Championships.

Karns served as a member of the U.S. Olympic Committee from 1973 to 1976, the same years he coached the U.S. Biathlon Team. He coached the U.S. Olympic Biathlon Team in 1976 and was Chief of Timing for Biathlon during the 1980 Olympic Winter Games in Lake Placid, New York. During the 2002 Olympic Winter Games in Salt Lake City, Karns served as chief of forerunners for biathlon events.

INTERMOUNTAIN SKI HALL OF FAME

Paul McCollister (1915 - 1999)

Following a successful career operating a California-based radio advertising company, Paul McCollister used his creative genius to envision, and ultimately build, the world-renowned Jackson Hole Ski Area in Northwestern Wyoming. In 1957, nearly 20 years after discovering the pristine beauty of the Grand Tetons, Paul moved his family from the rapidly growing California Bay Area to the remote and wild valley of Jackson Hole. Paul experienced all the wonderful opportunities the area had to offer, but his entrepreneurial spirit was about to be unleashed. In 1963 Paul McCollister launched the infant resort by forming the Jackson Hole Ski Corporation, obtaining a $1 million government-sponsored loan, and heeding the advice of ski mountain-savvy Willy Schaeffler, legendary coach of the touted Denver University Ski Team. Construction began in 1964. When the Jackson Hole Ski Area opened in 1966, it offered three chairlifts and a 63 passenger aerial tramway, the iconic centerpiece of Paul's dream. The tram whisked skiers to the summit of Rendezvous Mountain, boasting a vertical rise of 4,139 feet, the greatest in North America at the time. From day one Jackson Hole has attracted the most talented and dedicated individuals. It is truly a skiers' mountain. Rightfully proud, Paul said of his efforts: "There are not too many people who have created something from virtually nothing. This is my baby. It has turned out to be my life." Paul McCollister retired from the resort in 1992 and died in 1999 at the age of 84.

K Smith (1916 - 2001)

The ski pioneering exploits of K Smith are various and numerous. But one is paramount: Brighton Ski Area in Utah's Big Cottonwood Canyon. In 1936 the man with only an initial for a first name added alpine skiing to Brighton's recreational offerings when he installed a T-bar tow to serve skiers. K began skiing in 1924. What followed was a lifetime of significant skiing-related accomplishments. They include being president of the Alpine Ski Club in 1940, a member of the storied 10th Mountain Division of World War II fame, and the battalion ski supervisor in the 86th Mountain Infantry Division.

While stationed in the military in Japan in 1945, K built that country's first ski lift in Sapporo, which played host to the 1972 Olympic Winter Games. In 1946 Smith became operator of Brighton Ski Area and started its ski school, which bore his name. He was responsible for training numerous ski instructors and served on the board of directors of the Professional Ski Instructors of America-Intermountain.

In 1954 K started the Salt Lake County Ski School for school children and in 1956 he pioneered the Deseret News Free Ski School, the largest in the nation, both held in Brighton. He coached the Westminster College, Salt Lake City Ski Team in 1970 and set many challenging race courses for local racers during the 50's and 60's. K retired in 1972 and was inducted into the PSIA-Intermountain Hall of Fame in 1989. He died July 21, 2001.

Margo Walters-McDonald (1942 -)

From 1957 to 1967 the name Margo Walters perennially appeared high on the result sheets that spanned the spectrum of ski racing: the Intermountain Championships, the Intermountain Junior and Senior National Championships, the Western Regional Championships, the storied Snow Cup, Roche Cup, and Harriman Cup events, the U.S. National Championships and the Olympic Winter Games.

The fiercely-competitive, yet diminutive, Margo first donned skis in 1951 in Bear Gulch, Idaho - a fateful event that ultimately led to a first place finish in the Junior Nationals, a second place finish in the Senior Nationals, three Snow Cup victories (1960, 1961 and 1963), and a 21st place finish in the downhill in the 1964 Olympic Winter Games in Innsbruck, Austria, where she was a member of the U.S. Olympic Team.

A graduate of Salt Lake City's Jordan High School, Margo served as executive director of the Intermountain Ski Association from 1967 to 1970.

New Entry to Museum

Designer's Statement by Libby Hyland

“The design goal of this project was to make a clear entry to the Alf Engen Ski Museum at eye level, and draw visitors down the hall to the start of the exhibitions. To give the space definition, we designed a dimensional wall, which wraps from the lobby, around the corner of the entry, down the long hallway opposite the silver doors, and around the corner to the existing Hall of Fame wall. The wall is 72 feet long, 12 feet high, and undulates, recalling the movement and shape of the Intermountain West's snow drifts. Alcoves are formed by the curves, making room for future exhibit cases and displays.

Lighting was improved to showcase the wall, an aluminum-frame structure with a printed fabric wrap that can be replaced and refreshed later with new content. The wall was designed by Jared Sweet and built by Utah's Fusion Graphics. Photos were provided by the University of Utah J. Willard Marriott Library Ski Archives.

View of Museum Entry Wall looking toward entrance.

The background of the wall graphic is a panoramic shot of the Wasatch Mountain Range. Overlaid graphics and photos start at present day and take the visitor back in time, setting the stage for the Silver Ore to White Gold exhibit and the rest of the museum.

As always, working with Executive Director Connie Nelson, and the Alf Engen Ski Museum Board was a creative director's dream...they are supportive, collaborative and have an outstanding vision of the mission and purpose of the museum.”

Chairman's Letter

by Scott Ulbrich

Happy holidays and welcome to the 2007 Winter Edition of the Alf Engen Ski Museum Foundation's Ski Meister.

It is a pleasure to report that both our financial and visitation numbers for 2007 have been the 'best' yet. We have been able to not only balance our 2007 budget; we were able to exceed income projections which enabled us to complete Phase I of a new entrance to the museum. We will be working to raise more funds next year to complete Phase II in 2008. Our goal is to keep the Museum vibrant and attractive to both new and repeat guests.

Another achievement has been the record number of guests that have visited our Museum this year. Several factors have contributed to this increase. Admission charges to the Utah Olympic Park (and Museum) are now free (as of May, 2007). We have also worked diligently to promote the Museum locally and beyond. Since opening in May 2002, the Alf Engen Ski Museum has entertained and enlightened more than 690,000 visitors.

We have been able to achieve our goals thanks to an increase in membership numbers, individual and foundation contributors and grant funds. The Foundation is also fortunate to have a dynamic and active Board of Trustees and docent program. We truly appreciate everyone for their financial and personal support. We could not have the financial and program success without you!

Thank you for helping to achieve our mission – preserving the rich history of skiing in the Intermountain Region. We wish you a healthy, prosperous and snowy 2008.

Seasons Greetings from the Executive Director

By Connie Nelson

Thank you to everyone for your generous and ever strong support. The Alf Engen Ski Museum Foundation celebrated its five year anniversary this year. It has been so amazing to watch this organization gain strength and momentum thanks to support from all of you - members, donors, Board members, docents, and grant and foundation organizations.

Our Museum has had the privilege to educate over 180,000 guests this year compared to 160,000 last year. This is a 58% increase from our 2003 visitation numbers! The Museum has worked hard over the past five years to maintain and expand our world-class facility to attract more local, national, international cultural and historical tourists. This is, in part, due to the support of the Utah Athletic Foundation and marketing grants from the Summit County 1% Restaurant Tax.

We were able to promote and expand our Educational Field Trip program thanks to grants from Summit County RAP Tax, Wells Fargo Bank and the Marriner S. Eccles Foundation. The 2006/2007 school year saw over 1,600 parents, students and teachers from 25 schools. The Museum's volunteer docents are the cornerstone of this program. All 23 docents are trained and enjoy coaching new docents. The exciting result of working with these valued docents is to see how they have taken ownership of the program and work hard to ensure its success.

I would like to give a special 'thanks' to the docents, Board members and to our president - Scott Ulbrich, for continuing to guide and teach me everyday! What an honor to be associated with such a high caliber of professionals! Hope to see you here at the Museum soon! Happy Holidays!
